

Agricola Querciabella

2005 Mongrana

“ Tuscany is sooo 20th Century. With-it wine fans will haul themselves out of that castle in Siena and head for the southern end of Tuscany to the Maremma region. These aren't chianti wines because they're out of the region, but they're big, powerful - and even better, by some estimations. ”

- “ 2005 Mongrana Maremma Toscana, Indicazione Geografica Tipica, by Querciabella: bright, smooth and middle-weight, with black plum and clove flavors and firm tannin. ”

 Fred Tasker

‘Recommended’

The Miami Herald

July 19, 2007

